

Pyramids - Communication Gates to the Cosmos

Conventional science in print is suppressed and controlled, so information of this type is not present.

Nonetheless, one of the many uses of pyramids is to function as consciousness energy signals 1)strength boosters, 2)relayers to the universal field, and 3)to target specific star system locations. Much like the cellular towers and radio towers that relay, boost, and target/orientate signals on earth. Specifically, pyramids can transmit conscious thought into the general universal field and toward specific targets anywhere in the universe instantly.

People on earth used/use pyramids to communicate with their distant star families. Beings of sufficiently high vibration can communicate directly with their star families with the power of their individual consciousness connecting to the universal field. Like a radio tuned to a specific frequency, star families of that frequency can communicate with a human starseed of the same frequency.

The right pyramid can also create a “portal” that can target a consciousness energy “beam” to a specific location in the universe. Such a pyramid “portal” can even transmit conscious thought from a being not having the power to transmit his/her own consciousness directly into the universal field.

The orientation of a pyramid and its portal can target communication to a specific star system when the pyramid aligns with that specific system. This alignment is time dependent due the changing relative positions of the earth and the target stars . However, communication to and from the general universal field can happen anytime, independent of the pyramid’s alignment.

For earth to star communications, the frequency from the earth being has to be received by a matching frequency receptor at the star. Within star families, the frequency (sender and receiver) match and communication can happen.

An analogy may clarify this information. Imagine a light bulb in a dark void. If the light bulb is dim, it will not be seen from far away. This is similar to a weak consciousness signal. If the light bulb is powerfully bright, like a star, it can be seen from far away. This is like a strong consciousness signal. Finally, imagine a powerful laser directed at a specific location in the void (like a planet). That laser light signal can be seen in a very distant planet. This is like a pyramid “portal” transmitting a consciousness signal to a specific target.

Research will be done to locate portals in the pyramids of Cosmic View Homes and communities and to the possibility of a pyramid generally boosting consciousness communications into the universal field.

The potential of these consciousness communications is limitless. Importantly, groups and communities combining their consciousnesses with be able to better manifest health, bountifulness, peace, harmony, joy; all manifestations that support love.

Spirituality and heaven on earth will be as common everyday as the air we breathe and the waters of earth.
